VIRAL ADVERTISING: AN ANALYSIS

RASLEEN KAUR

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR,
DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE,
SRI GURU GOBIND SINGH COLLEGE OF COMMERCE,
UNIVERSITY OF DELHI, INDIA.

ABSTRACT
The article attempts to analyse the concept of viral advertising and the factors which influences an ad to become viral. Viral advertising holds an important place in marketing world as it leads to a boost in the cost-effective level of brand awareness, an increase in consumer-driven interest in new marketing communications activity and even helps businesses reach beyond a business core target market. It also helps to create and amplify buzz around products and brands. Apart from these all, a key benefit is its contribution in adding to number, in terms of response and increased recommendation rates.

KEY WORDS: Viral, Marketing, Advertising, Maven characteristics, Intention.

NOTES AND REFERENCES:

