ABSTRACT:

The role of development administration is very important for the successful implementation of development programmes. For better tribal development administration, the Panchayats should also be revitalized and strengthened to oversee the implementation and monitor and also formulate the programmes. The representatives of local body will be the key persons in implementation of development programs. The block functionaries should also be made accountable to the Village Panchayat and the proper coordination and mutual understanding should be developed between the block officials and Village Panchayat members. This will certainly increase the people’s participation in the development process and also make the implementation of programmes smooth.

KEYWORDS: Tribal, Development, administration.
