IMPORTANCE OF SOFT SKILLS & LIFE SKILLS IN HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

M.JASMINÉ

ASST. PROFESSOR.P.
DEPT. OF SOCIAL WORK
KAKATIYA UNIVERSITY
WARANGAL (DIST)
TELANGANA STATE.

ABSTRACT
To Stay Competitive in today’s environment, organizations must provide client-focused business solutions, even for people who are providing IT solutions, the realities is that soft skills is still and integral part of the interaction with client and teams from gathering needs to implementing solutions and all else that happens within.

Soft skills mean a wide range of skills that most organizations find to be integral and necessary part of everyday. It is from basic communications skills to strategic management

Soft skill also known as communications skills it includes verbal communication, listening skills and non-verbal communication. In today’s work place environment, communication is a critical element in effective collaboration of different cultures is a good communication skill and superior in work place.

Communication Skill will directly reflects upon operational smoothness and increase in productivity. The tool that every professional need to succeed in business is other field in the world is rapidly shifting to a relationship based model of pattering and association. By improving soft skills make a different as an effective professional.

KEY WORDS: Soft skill, environment, organizations.

REFERNCES:
Soft skills in management sharu rangnekar
Personality development and soft skills barun.k.mitra
Practice skills in social work and welfare Janemaidment&Ronnie Egan
Personality development Gillian burn
Personality development B.vaikuntam