CULTURAL CRIMES IN INDIA: THE NEED TO MOVE FORWARD

SREE KRISHNA BHARADWAJ H

ABSTRACT

The concept of cultural crimes is as ancient as any civilization in humanity itself. The study observes that backwardness of the society sometimes crosses the line to a greater extent that humanity is put at risk. Although there are many resolutions and Conventions of the UN, no major agency holds the duty to stop these cultural crimes globally. The phenomenon is not just limited to India but it is an international concern. Religious extremism has been one of the major reasons for the increasing cultural crimes in India as well as worldwide. Therefore there is need to educate the masses and create awareness among them that humanity is greater than religion. The Government needs to take swift action against the oppressors. However much of the required changes is dependent upon the attitudinal changes of the society.
