ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF PULICAT: HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE

*M. SANDHIYA; DR. MARTHAL NALINI

*M.A., M.PHIL.,
PH.D RESEARCH SCHOLAR,
DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY, TOURISM & TRAVEL MANAGEMENT,
ETHIRAJ COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, CHENNAI-08.

M.A., M.PHIL., B.ED., PH.D.,
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, (RETD.),
DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY, TOURISM & TRAVEL MANAGEMENT,
ETHIRAJ COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, CHENNAI-08.

ABSTRACT

The Pulicat Lake, largest brackish water lagoon in South India, is a shallow depression and spreads over an area of 460 Sq.km. Pulicat was a Seaport in one of few Natural harbours on the Coromandel Coast of South India. The purpose of this research is to examine the Origin and Growth of Pulicat. The major findings of this paper is to study the historical background and significance of Pulicat, to provide a better understanding about the causes and consequences of trade in the Coromandel Coast of Pulicat, to trace out the changing scenario of the Pulicat City and to study the flora and faunas of the Pulicat Lake.

KEY WORDS: Coromandel Coast, Flora and Fauna, Natural Harbour, Pulicat Lake, Sea-trade.

REFERENCE

Inscription found on the wall of Adhinarayana Perumal Temple. Pulicat.

Welcome to Pulicat (Pazhaverkadu). Pulicat: Pulicat Interpretation Centre.

www.aarde.in