FEMINIST PERSPECTIVE ON WOMEN IN CHANGING WORK SCENARIO: AN EVOLUTIONARY PERSPECTIVE STUDY OF LITERATURES

SANGITA S. MOHANTY

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR (SOCIOLOGY), DEPARTMENT OF MASS MEDIA JOSHI-BEDEKAR COLLEGE, THANE.

ABSTRACT
Irrespective of civilization and culture the women hood has been treated as sub ordinate to men. This age old discrimination has led to much silent revolution leading to women emancipation and anti male outburst culminating with a changing work scenario. However there seems to be uneasy tense at work scenario and non co operation. In a global scenario though discrimination has diminished at workplace but women are still subjected to high level of stress due to domestic commitment. Though feminist are always advocating the cause of women freedom but some inherent reality related to women assignment cannot be ruled out. This paper is an attempt to document the research work carried out in global level related to women work life balance scenario and tries to pave out a systematic way of analysis to pragmatically sort out the problem of working women.

KEY WORDS: Women emancipation, Work life balance, Gender equality and second shift.

REFERENCES:

Ekdhal

Harper and Leitch (Exploring Social Change: America and the world, 2007, p. 91), Pearson

The Economist, 2010, p. 4 www.economist.com